Figure 5: If we observe the first k reshares of a cascade, and want to predict whether the cascade will double in size, our prediction improves as we observe more of it.